

Fairtree Mokala Macro SNN QI Hedge Fund

Minimum Disclosure Document - Class 1

31 January 2020

Fund Profile

The Fairtree Mokala Macro SNN QI Hedge Fund is a global macro multi-asset class portfolio. The long-term objective of the portfolio is to achieve superior risk adjusted returns through investment across a diverse set of investment strategies and asset classes. Although the portfolio aims to take advantage of macro economic themes, trends and investment opportunities globally, the majority of the risk is expressed in the South African equity market through an equity relative value strategy. A tactical risk allocation is expressed, from-time -to-time, to the most attractive non-South African, macro economic opportunities on an ad-hoc basis. This tactical allocation is expressed across asset classes in developed markets. The portfolio combines the strategic, South African relative value risk with a tactical, ad-hoc risk allocation to provide optimal diversification benefits.

Investment Strategy

The portfolio will combine a strategic risk allocation framework which provides the optimal diversification benefit across the various strategies, with tactical risk allocation to the most attractive opportunities as identified on a bottom up basis.

*The inception date for the portfolio is 1 June 2015. The historical performance figures until the end of 31 January 2017 reflect performance achieved prior to CISCA regulation. The portfolio has been transitioned under CISCA regulations on 1 February 2017 and has since been managed as a regulated product. The annualized total return is the average return earned by an investment each year over a given time period, since date of the launch of the fund. Actual annual figures are available from the manager on request. The highest and lowest 1 year returns represent the highest and lowest actual returns achieved during a 12 month rolling period year since the original launch date of the portfolio. The performance figures given show the yield on a Net Asset value ("NAV") basis. The yield figure is not a forecast. Performance is not guaranteed and investors should not accept it as representing expected future performance. Individual investor performance may differ as a result of initial fees, time of entry/actual investment date, date of reinvestment, and dividends withholding tax. Performance is calculated for a lump sum investment on a Net Asset Value basis. The performance figures are reported net of fees with income reinvested.

A higher TER does not necessarily imply a poor return, nor does a low TER imply a good return. The current TER may not necessarily be an accurate indication of future TER's. Transaction Costs are a necessary cost in administering the financial product and impacts financial product returns. It should not be considered in isolation as returns may be impacted by many other factors over time including market returns, the type of financial product, the investment decisions of the investment manager and the TER.

Market Commentary

Markets continued where it left off last year, enjoying a strong start. This is due to monetary and fiscal stimulus and an inflection of global PMI's, signalling a pick-up in global growth. However, the outbreak of the Coronavirus is threatening the status quo and caused the Capped Swix (-2.6%) and S&P 500 (-0.04%) to finish in the red. The virus has now infected more than 14 000 people, comfortably exceeding the 2003 SARS outbreak. We have not seen peak daily infections, which is worrying. Containment is difficult because the virus is contagious, despite the fact that infected people can go up to 14 days without presenting symptoms. Until now, 300 people have passed away, with deaths mainly occurring amongst the elderly. The size of China's economy, their importance to trade, metal demand and equity markets are multiples of what it was 17 years ago.

We are monitoring the outbreak closely and feel that markets have been very sanguine about the situation. There is a growing list of countries that have placed a ban on travel to and from China. At least two-thirds of China's economy will remain shut next week, although the stock markets in both Shanghai and Shenzhen will open for the first time since 23 January. Fourteen provinces (the source of 78% of China's exports in December last year) and cities have said businesses need not start operations until at least the second week of February. Those same provinces account for 90% of copper smelting, at least 60% of steel production, 65% of crude oil refining and 40% of coal output. This sparked a sell-off in commodities like Oil (-14.8%) and Copper (-10.0%).

Our long position in Exxaro (-7.5%), therefore experienced a tough month. Short positions in big diversified companies like Anglo American (-2.1%) and BHP Billiton (-1.2%) cushioned the blow. Sasol (-21.2%) issued a weak trading statement and also dealt with an explosion at their LCCP plant. We don't feel you can be long Sasol, as they are facing a lot of environmental pressures and we have a bearish outlook for Chemical markets.

In more positive news, the PGM basket reached all-time highs. Despite this, we saw some profit taking, especially early in the month in these equities. We used this as an opportunity to increase our positioning in this space as the spot free cash flow yields are extremely attractive. We still prefer to hold Impala (-1.4%) and Northam (+1.7%) over Anglo Platinum (-8.3%).

On the local front, the SA retail reporting season had one consistent message: things are extremely tough for the SA consumer. Volume growth and real revenue growth was scarce. Private companies are retrenching to protect profitability and the government's gravy train has also stopped, since money has run out. This, coupled with low consumer confidence, means it is tough to see what will spark a pick-up in demand.

Load shedding is also back, crippling an already-struggling economy. The Rand was therefore under a lot of pressure. These two realities lead to a further sell-off in banks and other SA Inc. names. South African stocks screen as very cheap versus the rest of the world, so we hold a net-long position. Long positions in Absa (-7.9%), PSG (-8.5%) and Old Mutual (-12.0%) were a big drag on the fund.

It is tough to feel positive in this environment however, let's hope it is darkest before dawn. With a struggling local economy, elevated US markets and global risks abound, we feel the fund will see many active management opportunities.

Collective Investment Schemes are generally medium- to long-term investments. The value of participatory interests (units) may go down as well as up. Past performance is not necessarily a guide to future performance. Collective investments are traded at ruling prices and can engage in scrip lending and borrowing.
